

Speaking Truth To Power Even When It Is Unpopular To Do So

I have criticized, condemned and/or praised elected officials, law enforcement, the media, pastors, public figures, the rich and powerful regarding civil rights, civil liberties and social justice issues.

Our mission at the Florida Civil Rights Association (FCRA) is timeless and our struggles in communities of color are endless. The steady climb to high ground for people of color starts with you and me. We can no longer allow the rich and powerful to use their positions to scare us into silence.

The public calls on the FCRA to take on controversial and unpopular issues; like the right to vote, fair elections, access to health care, immigrant rights, corrupt elected officials, freedom of speech, government transparency, police misconduct and equal treatment in the public and private sectors.

We take on politicians and government officials who ignore the Constitution and put our rights at risk. The FCRA doesn't answer to polls like lawmakers or let negative media reports stand in our way.

The FCRA will continue to speak truth to power - in the courtroom, the legislative hearing room, the press room, the police interview room, the board room, the school room, and your living room.

We believe in the Constitution of the United States. If you feel the same way - I invite you to become a community leader by becoming an active member of the FCRA in your city or county. Click here!
